Bustling then and now

Back in 1938 when this picture was taken, the Sunsweet operation in Campbell was the hub of the town's business activities. Today the area is bustling again as final preparations are made for the conversion of the former fruit packing facility into "The Factory", a new cultural, entertainment and dining center for Campbell.

Award given next month for citizen-of-the-year

Ed Fabbri, president of the Chamber of Commerce, this week urged residents of the community to participate in the annual selection of the citizen-of-the-year.

Ballots have been sent to all CofC members and to members of various service clubs. A coupon will be published in the next two issues of The Press to allow those who have not otherwise been contacted to "nominate" their choice for the award.

The nominee's name must be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce office at 100 W. Rincon, by Monday, Jan. 7, 1974.

The citizen-of-the-year award will be presented at the annual installation dinner-dance on Friday, Jan. 18, at Zorba's.

Fabbri said that the award goes to the person who has voluntarily worked on improvement projects and causes for the betterment of Campbell.

He added that services of the nominee need not pertain only to the previous year, but rather to a consistence of effort through the past years. The nominee need not be a member of any organization or club.

Names of the candidates submitted to the Chamber of Commerce by Jan. 7 will be presented to the special committee of five of the past citizen-of-the-year award winners. The committee will select the recipient for this year's honor.

Other members are Norm Paul, 1972; Rev. W. H. (Ben) Gould, 1970; Mrs. Jeanette Watson, 1969 and Don Hebard, 1968.

Neal Royer, who was named citizen-of-the-year in 1971, lives in Atascadero and cannot participate in the selection this year.

Fourth term

Doetsch announces council candidacy

Councilman Ralph Doetsch, 60, elected as a write-in candidate in 1962 and re-elected to two four-year terms, announced this week that he would seek re-election for his fourth term.

The election is scheduled for Tuesday, March 5, a month earlier than has been the case in the past. Filing deadline for candidates is Dec. 27.

Doetsch, who served as mayor in 1966 and 1971, was born in Texas and came to Los Gatos with his parents in 1920. He attended Campbell elementary schools and Campbell High.

He has long been active in St. Lucy's activities and is a long-time member of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce.

Ralph and his wife Lorraine reside at 1580 Dell ave. They have two married sons, Ralph, Jr., and Frank. Their son Joseph is a senior at Santa Clara University and Phil is employed by Orchard Supply. Their daughter Denise attends Presentation high school.

In his re-election announcement, Doetsch said:

"I have decided to seek re-election to the city council because I want to see many of the civic projects, that have been on the drawing board for a long time, successfully completed.

"In the 12 years that I have served as councilman (two terms as mayor), the city of Campbell has come a long way toward reaching the objectives that were merely dreams back in 1962 when I was first elected.

"During the 12 years the city has faced a number of crises but has always survived and emerged stronger than before. I am proud to have had a major role in these achievements.

"Some of the projects that have been completed during the 12 years include the magnificent city hall and the fire station on Sunnyoaks. Many major street projects have also been completed during the 12 years I have served as your councilman.

"The contract has now been let for the new library, long awaited by the citizens of the community.

"The completion of the library, the development of the loop streets and the development of our parks are just a few of the major city projects that are pending.

"I would appreciate the opportunity of serving as your city councilman for another term."

Ralph Doetsch

On energy saving

Elementary district nixes PG&E ideas

Although local elementary schools are instituting programs to save on gas and electricity during the coming months, present use will continue in two areas, according to A. O. Bachelor, district business manager.

Pacific Gas and Electric co.'s suggestion to remove every other bulb got turned down by the Campbell elementary school official. "There is significant evidence that this can have long range detrimental effects on students' eyesight," Bachelor said at last Thursday's board meeting.

Another suggestion from PG & E, as part of their request for a 10 per cent voluntary cutback in power utilization, was that thermostats be turned down to 68 degrees. "In classrooms where students do not have an opportunity to get up and walk around when they get cold," Bachelor said, "temperatures should not be below 70 degrees."

Instead of setting down specific guidelines from the district office, each school is curtailing power use according to their individual needs, Bachelor said.

Diesel fuel for three of the elementary district's nine school buses will be exhausted in January unless a request for adjustment is okayed trustees heard.

With diesel fuel allocations based on purchases during 1972, the district could be short some 5,000 gallons of fuel needed in 1974. According to Bachelor, the district purchased a large supply of diesel fuel in December, 1971 and did not buy more until March of the following year. The district's last purchase was Nov. 19 and, under the allocation guidelines, they would have to wait until March, 1974 before they could get more.

A request for adjustment was sent to the Department of the Interior oil and gas office, which must respond within 15 days of receipt of the request.

Suggestions on ways to conserve fuel came from the audience last week and included less use of school's multi-use rooms and running schools on a four instead of five day week, with longer school hours each day. "We must teach a certain number of days yearly according to present state law, no matter how long the day," Bachelor said.

Another suggestion to reduce gasoline and diesel fuel use was to lessen the number of students bused by the district by increasing walking distance boundaries. Fewer students would then be eligible to ride the buses.

Most of the busing done in the district now is for safety reasons (such as across busy expressways) rather than convenience, Bachelor replied.

Lawyer warns city of suit on fire hydrant

San Jose attorney John E. Thorne warned the city council Monday night that the city faces court action in the case of the "misplaced" fire plug at 847 Sunnypark.

Thorne made his warning after the council had unanimously rejected his plea to move the offending fire hydrant from the front lawn of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Bennett.

Several weeks ago the council voted 3-2 to refuse to move the hydrant. Councilman Rusty Hammer made the motion to stand firm on that decision on Monday night.

In announcing that litigation would probably now occur, Thorne asked that the city hold up moving the hydrant 10 feet, as had been suggested as an alternative, until the matter is legally settled.

Mayor Dean Chamberlin told Thorne that the city attorney would contact him on the matter.

Bank gets only permit for new construction

That permit, for $37,440, went to the Westlands Bank to be constructed at 777 S. Bascom ave.

No residential or industrial building permits were issued during the month, but other permits totalled $112,617, more than twice the amount issued for the same month last year ($52,557). In December, 1972, the only permit issued was for a $30,972 duplex.

Seven alterations and additions totalled $16,245. Two permits for swimming pools were $7,932 and three miscellaneous permits were $51,000.

Although building in Campbell this year has continued at a steady pace up to the last few months, the total for the first 11 months is behind last year by $1,458,404.

At the end of November last year, permits totalled $14,183,516. This year the total through November was $12,725,112.

The total for the entire year in 1972 was $14,354,085, following the record-breaking building year of 1971 when the total reached $18,439,839.

Single family, duplex and industrial building in Campbell this year are far above last year but last year was tops in multiples and commercial construction.

Deadlines early for holiday ads

Because of the two year-end holidays (Christmas and New Year's), both the advertising and editorial final deadlines have been shoved ahead for the Campbell Press and other Suburban newspapers.

Final deadline for the Dec. 26 issue will be noon on Friday, Dec. 21, and noon on Friday, Dec. 28, for the Jan. 2 issue.

Del Mar home ec classes open house

The Home Economics department of Del Mar high school is holding an open house tomorrow, Dec. 13, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in room 8 of the school.

Holiday crafts prepared by the classes will be on display. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

Construction

Campbell to be location of new bank headquarters

The northern California regional headquarters of the Westlands Bank will be constructed in Campbell on a 4.6 acre site at 1777 S. Bascom ave., according to Philip R. Boyce, of Saratoga, northern California vice-president.

A building permit for $37,440 was issued on Nov. 14 for the temporary office building and the planning commission has approved construction of the permanent structure at the same location.

The bank was founded in Santa Ana in August, 1970 and opened the San Diego regional office in June, 1973. The bank closed the third quarter this year, according to Russ M. Vorwerk, president, with more than $106 million in assets and a record of banking growth unparalleled in California during the past decade.

Westlands is a full service, California state bank, according to Boyce, and offers computer service for the real estate industry, businessman and professionals.

The temporary headquarters should be completed by January, Boyce said. Dennis M. Fitzpatrick, vice-president and regional office manager, will assist Boyce in the bank's operation.

MAKING GINGERBREAD cookies at Cypress school are Gina Lorrie, Susi Paurd, Kimeta Dabeca with Mrs. Oytell, a parent volunteer. Students prepare simple menus each week in the "Dragon Room" of the elementary school as part of the Early Childhood Education program.

Planning commission to act on restaurant, trailer park

Plans for a Chinese restaurant at 1815 S. Bascom and a mobile home park off Camden ave. on Los Gatos creek have been submitted for planning commission action on Monday, Dec. 17.

The Chinese restaurant, to be called "Fung Lum," is a development of the Pang family headquartered in Hong Kong. With room for 300 people, the restaurant will have a 100-foot frontage on Bascom and will be 90 feet deep. There will be parking spaces for 97 cars.

The plans were before the commission previously but have been modified at the planning staff's suggestion.

Brandenburg, Staedler and Moore, a firm that has developed other mobile home parks in the area, has submitted a request for a zone change from M-2-S to P-D (planned development) for the creek area to allow the mobile home park.

Under P-D, the plans, elevations and development schedule must be approved by both the planning commission and the city council. The proposed park will have 151 spaces and will be entered from Camden avenue. Previous approval had been granted for a recreational vehicle park in the same area.

Other matters before the commission next Monday include plans for an industrial building for W. F. Battan & Co., at 1360 Whiteoaks, and a request for a side-yard variance to allow for the construction of a fence at 847 Sunnypark court by Dennis Bennett.

Primary graders learn cooking in 'dragon room'

The "Dragon Room" is the hub of the Cypress Early Childhood Education (E.C.E.) program. One corner of the media center contains a nutrition and cooking area, a place for daily lessons, discussions and "doing."

In the "Dragon Room" students make gingerbread cookies and have donned aprons to cut up apples, crack nuts and wash lettuce for a Waldorf Salad. (One student went home after class and made the salad for her family.)

Cypress is one of three Campbell elementary district schools receiving additional state funds for the E.C.E. program. The funds help to restructure the primary grades and to work toward a one-to-ten teacher-student ratio.

Alice Cargile and Debbit Judge, first grade teachers, were responsible for setting up the "Dragon Room." Emphasis of the project is good nutrition and wholesome snacks. Menus change weekly, with simple recipes children can prepare and understand.

Builders upset

Sprinkler requirements ordinance clears hurdle

Despite pleas by representatives of the builders' council to delay enactment, the city council Monday gave first reading to an ordinance establishing requirements for sprinkler systems in certain size buildings in the city.

The builders' representatives maintained they had not had enough time to study the ordinance. They were especially upset by paragraph 11, which specifies there must be sprinklers in any garage in which a water heater or furnace is installed.

Fire Chief Gene Borden, however, explained the ordinance had been under study for more than a year and the Chamber of Commerce commercial committee had approved it.

Holly Vollenweider, chairman of the CofC committee, added there were several builders on his committee.

In another fire matter, the council also gave first reading to an ordinance that established a fee schedule for fire inspections. This ordinance also had the endorsement of the CofC committee.

In still another fire item, Fire Chief Borden told the council that because of recent action of the supervisors, the fire department would not come before the council to seek a ban on fireworks in Campbell. The supervisors voted 3-2 against prohibiting the sale and use of fireworks.

Borden suggested that an educational program was planned with respect to the use of fireworks, especially by young people.

City adopts policy to aid handicapped

By resolution on Monday night, the city council adopted an ordinance which would implement the policies and standards for the removal or prevention of architectural barriers to the physically handicapped.

Representatives of handicapped associations had met with Wally Byron, city building official, prior to the meeting and were also on hand at the council meeting to present their case.

In another action Monday night, the city council awarded the contract for the new fire department paramedic truck to Courtesy Chevrolet which had submitted a low bid of $4,261.95.

There were five bids submitted ranging to a high of $4,567.26.

C of C to hold annual lunch for Christmas

Female guests of Chamber of Commerce members are especially invited to the annual Christmas lunch which will be held at Villa Felice, on Wednesday, Dec. 19.

Keith Houdyshell, director of community relations for Great Western Savings, will be the luncheon speaker.

Len Edholm, C of C manager, hinted that a surprise Santa Claus may also be a visitor at the luncheon.

Edholm also reported three new members, Mike Neth, manager of Creative Home Loans; Jerry Gomes, Raintree Realtors; John Ponce, manager Nob Hill Market.

Members are urged to call the C of C office (378-6252) to make reservations for the lunch.

Groundbreaking ceremony held

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Campbell's new $900,000 library will take place on the building site (across from the city hall between Harrison and Central) at 3 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 13.

City and county officials will participate in the program with Mrs. Jeanette Watson, chairman of the Civic Improvement commission, as mistress of ceremonies.

Mayor Dean Chamberlin, Supervisor Ralph Mehrkens and County Librarian Barbara Campbell will assist in turning the first spade, signifying the beginning of construction.

Following the ceremony, members of the Campbell Country Women's Club and Campbell Friends of the Library will serve refreshments in the council chambers.

R. L. Carroll Co., of San Jose, is the contractor for the 24,000 square foot building that will be built by the city and leased to the county library system.

The facility is financed by a $400,000 city bond issue (of which $232,785 has been spent in site acquisitions and design). The county allocated $265,000 and received a federal grant of $200,000.

Additional funds, if necessary, will be provided from the city's general or revenues-sharing funds. A community meeting room and the automatic fire sprinkler system will be paid for in that manner.

Citizens group to study need for tax election

A citizens committee to study the need for a tax election will be appointed by the Campbell union elementary school district.

By unanimous vote last Thursday, trustees authorized the committee, which will be limited to nine to 11 members of the community selected from nominations made by community organizations and individual citizens.

Deadline for school board receipt of nominations is Dec. 20. The board will meet in executive session to review nominations and appoint the committee Jan. 10.

In other business trustees:

- Authorized the administration to seek bids on placement of a safety surface under all district playground equipment and on a 79-passenger diesel powered bus. Estimated cost of the bus was set at between $35,000 and $36,000. Bids will be opened in the board room of the district office Jan. 3.
- Board president Dr. Robert L. King appointed Trustees George Baker and Gordon Abbott to the board audit committee.
- Adopted a resolution calling for hiking the district's revolving fund account from $5,000 to $10,000.

Trustees promote affirmative action in elementary schools

Trustees adopted three resolutions Thursday evening to implement an affirmative action program for the Campbell elementary school district.

The resolutions authorize the employment of a full-time affirmative action officer for the remainder of the 1973-74 school year, call for setting up an affirmative action (A.A.) committee including members of the community, and specify guidelines for selecting the A.A. officer.

The purpose of an affirmative action program is to examine and rectify any discrepancies in practices of an organization relating to employment of minority groups and women.

The first two resolutions were passed unanimously by the trustees. Jennie Vaughan, clerk of the board, abstained from voting on the third, which calls for setting up the selection process for the A.A. officer. Mrs. Vaughan did not agree with the board majority that a board member be part of the pre-screening committee.

That committee would also include a non-management certified employee selected by the Certificated Employee Council, a management employee selected by the Superintendent, a classified employee selected by a joint decision of the two employee organizations, and a community member selected by the Board of Trustees.

The A.A. committee, which will develop a policy to be presented to the board, will include three community members selected by the board, two management persons selected by the Superintendent and by the Administrators Association, two certificated non-management individuals selected by the C.E.C., and one classified person selected by the employee organization and the Affirmative Action Officer.

The officer will be selected by the board from a list of not more than 10 names suggested by the pre-screening committee. The officer's eight tasks include examining existing personnel policies, updating and organizing statistical data on the employment of minorities and woman, and working directly with the A.A. committee to recommend courses of action to the board. The officer would also implement the policies of the A.A. program, give in-service cultural awareness training to staff members and supervisors in coordination with the instructional department, and prepare quarterly reports to the board on the progress of the program.

Trustees vote funds for school music programs

Trustees unanimously authorized a $12,706 allocation last week for Campbell elementary schools' instrumental music program. The money will be taken from the summer music program fund, which has been accumulating for several years.

Citing a pressing need for these funds, Trustee Gordon Abbott proposed the motion. "For five years the program has been allowed to deteriorate," he said.

Of the total funded, $5,830 would go for capital improvements and $6,876 for replacements.

The schools and their allocations are as follows:

- Cypress, Lynhaven and Parkway: $989 capital and $102 replacements.
- Blackford, Dover and Sherman Oaks: $80 capital and $2,797 replacements.
- Campbell, Hazelwood and Hamilton: $151 capital and $2,658 replacements.
- Capri and Forest Hill: $917 capital and $183 replacements.
- Monroe, Casltemont and Moorpark: $759 capital and $566 replacements.
- Rolling Hills and Marshall Lane: $2,235 capital and $210 replacements.
- Quito, San Tomas and Rosemary: $699 capital and $360 replacements.
- According to Abbott, the music program now serves some 1,500 students in the local district.

WVC begins to develop data processing system

West Valley college has begun phased development of a new data processing information system. The initial steps were taken Thursday evening when trustees approved establishment of three new positions: data base administrator, systems analyst and programmer-analyst.

In other action Thursday evening the governing board:

- Approved consolidation of the trustee election on March 5, 1974, with general municipal elections within the district.
- Established an annual nonresident tuition fee of $903 for full time students, and a $30 per unit nonresident tuition fee for parttime students for the 1974-75 school year.
- Approved a contract with the State of California's Department of Health to train 15 Indian community health workers during four separate workshops.
- Established a number of new courses, including portrait painting, figure painting, metal sculpture casting and glaze and clay body in the art department; and math for the liberal arts student.
- Accepted the sealed bid of Ray H. Wood, 14999 Short Hill court, Saratoga, to buy approximately 450 square feet of the Saratoga campus. Wood will pay $300 for the land, $200 for surveying and $100 for legal advertising.
- Extended the contract for shuttle bus services between the Saratoga and Campbell campuses for the spring semester.
- Approved a change order on the warehouse-maintenance building to add numerous additional safety requirements.

Statewide butchers strike

Strike, lockouts close some meat counters

SUPERMARKETS IN THE Santa Clara valley were closed or crowded last week because of the statewide butcher's union strike, but there were no meat or other shortages apparent.

The strike which began at midnight Dec. 2, originally shut down all Lucky stores in the area and all but five of 40 Safeway valley stores.

As the strike progressed Safeway and Lucky managed to open a few more stores, using supervisory personnel and volunteers including wives and children of store managers.

In response to the strike against the two chains, Alpha Beta, Albertson's,P and W, Brentwood's, Ralphs, and Cala food locked out their butchers, closing meat counters, substituting supervisory personnel or cutting down operating hours.

MAYFAIR MARKETS, a 300 store chain, signed an interim agreement during mid-week accepting union 5.5 per cent pay increase and other demands.

Other markets which have remained open because they, too, have signed interim agreements, include Food Villa, Farmer's market, Russell's, Nob Hill, Food Fair, Co-op, Fry's, and Dick's markets.

About 400 butchers had been locked out, by the end of the week, according to union spokesmen, and had set up picket lines. Retail clerks, teamsters, bakers and other respected those lines at many markets.

BY THE END of the week, butcher's union spokesmen were hopeful that more interim agreements were in the offing. Statewide negotiations were set to take place in Southern California.

The issues behind the strike, according to spokesmen for butcher's union local 506, center on cost of living adjustments and job security in the face of increasing automation. Butchers want a guarantee that there will be an automatic adjustment in wages as the cost of living increases. There is also argument over pension plans.

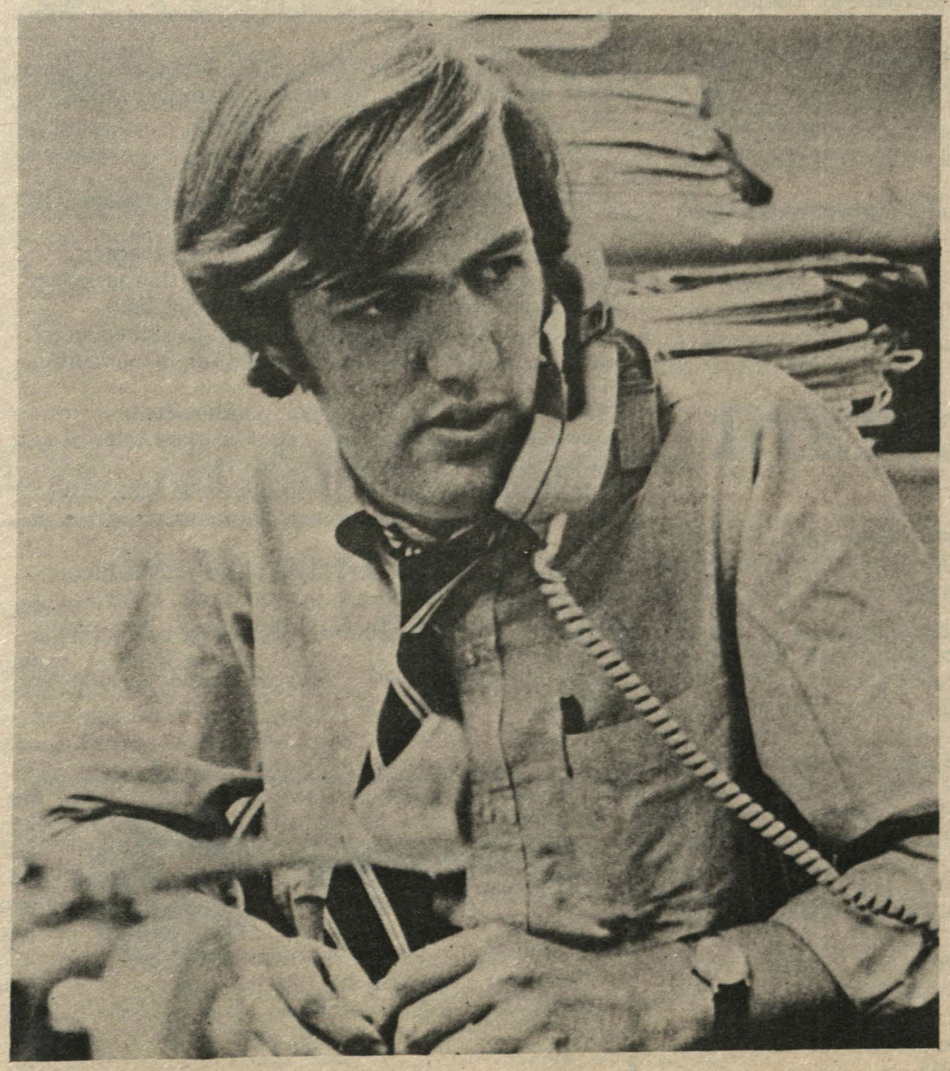
The Food Employers council, representing retailers throughout the state, has argued that butcher's total demands represent an increase of 35.94 per cent over three years, raising hourly rates including wages and fringes to $10.10 an hour in the third year of the contract.

'Hallelujah Chorus' at Del Mar

The Del Mar high school choir and orchestra will present their traditional rendering of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" this evening, Dec. 12, at the annual Christmas program. The event will be held at 8 p.m. in the school cafetorium.

Also featured will be soloist Kerry Field in a music-comedy sequence "Santa and his Elves," and "The Three Noels," in Leroy Anderson's arrangement of "A Christmas Festival." The school's brass band will carol the audience as they arrive. In the finale the jazz band will perform "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas."

Refreshments will be served and the program is open to the public without charge.



REPORTER Brit Hume, West Valley college-sponsored speaker.

DISCUSSING PLANS for their trip to San Francisco were Dover school's DeDee Gansloser, student teacher who initiated the project; Ricky Vasquez, teacher Pat Bradburn and Liz Valenzuela. Dover fourth grade students visited San Francisco state university yesterday to watch their time capsule being buried in the foundation of the new student union building.

What would you put in a time capsule?

What three items would you place in a time capsule to be buried in concrete until after the year 2000?

Dover school fourth grade students recently responded to this question and yesterday they were present at San Francisco state university's dedication ceremonies where their time capsule was buried.

The idea for the capsule came from Dover student teacher DeDee Gansloser, with the support of resident teacher Pat Bradburn. Local students journeyed to San Francisco yesterday to watch as the capsule was buried in the foundation of the new student union building.

The time capsule is made of heavy gauge stainless steel molded to look like a miniature space ship. It is two feet high and one foot in diameter.

After the selected items were placed in the tube here on Nov. 30, it was hermetically sealed and filled with an inert gas to preserve the contents indefinitely.

Some of the suggestions included: A news story of the Agnew resignation, pictures of the World Series, an article on the meat shortage, an American flag, an American eagle ("because it will be extinct by then"), pictures of spacecraft and flying things, "pressed flowers so that we don't forget what they look like," and a piece of gold.

A final suggestion came from Lorrie Dashnaw who wanted, "a picture of me and my whole family, with my dog, bird and pet guinea pig."

Investigative reporter Hume to speak at Campbell high

Investigative reporter Brit Hume, who writes for Jack Anderson's syndicated "Washington Merry-Go-Round," column, will speak in the Campbell high school auditorium Jan. 9 at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by West Valley college's community services office, Hume's topic will be, "Politics and the Press."

Tickets may be obtained by calling community services at 379-9415.

Hume decries the brand of journalism traditional in the nation's capital. "Most of the journalism in this town is hand-out journalism," he says, referring to press conferences where "overloads of information" are fed to reporters. "That's not reporting," he insists, "that's repeating."

Author of a recent book, "Death and the Mines," the story of the United Mine Workers, Hume is an English graduate from the University of Virginia and has worked for many national newspapers, including the Hartford Times and Baltimore Evening Sun before joining forces with Anderson.

OUT ON THE LIMB

with George Vierhus

HERE IS A FASHION NOTE that we find hard to believe.

But our Dorothy says that it is possible and that is good enough for us.

We think this is the way we heard it. But don't hold us to it.

Anyway, we were in a hospital emergency room lobby recently when this young woman came hopping in on one leg.

Her other leg was in a cast.

We heard the nurse who was on duty solicitously ask the young woman how the accident occurred.

"I fell off my shoes," the girl answered.

Honestly, that was the way we heard it.

At least we think we heard it that way and we were only a few feet away.

And our Dorothy explains that with these so-called "platform shoes" that are in vogue it is possible that a person could get hurt falling off them.

Honest.

PLANS HAVE BEEN APPROVED for a two-story handball court facility on Salmar across from Gold Key.

It marks the first such activity for Campbell and we understand that handball, racquetball and squash will be played in the center called the "courthouse."

A brochure we were given reveals that a similar facility, called 'Wallbangers', is located in Foster City.

The borchure reports that handball, racquetball and squash are booming thanks to their ease of play, vigorous competitive activity and new facilities such as 'Wallbangers'.

We are unfamiliar with the setup, but, if we get an opportunity, we intend to look in on one of the facilities.

The name 'Wallbanger' intrigues us anyway.

Y'know, a "Harvey wallbanger."

Have you ever tried one?

A couple of them and one would have trouble finding the court.

Handball, that is.

A NEWS RELEASE FROM the county health department reports that the monthly low-cost anti-rabies clinic sponsored by the veterinarians and the health department will be held on Saturday, Dec. 15, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the health department at 2220 Moorpark ave., San Jose.

The clinic is for dogs only. Cats must be vaccinated by a private veterinarian.

Apparently the good people who run the clinic are quite concerned about cats straying in. In addition to including the point in the news release that the clinic is for dogs only, a memo was attached to it with these instructions:

"Adaptations of the enclosed release should always indicate that the clinic is dogs only. Recently a few cat owners have found their way to the clinics. Thank you for your cooperation."

For sure the health people and the vets involved are not being catty in this instance anyway.

A HOLIDAY NEWS RELEASE from the California Veterinary Medical association lists 10 tips for giving pets at Christmas.

We thought the first tip especially focused in on the pet situation. But, at the same time, we wondered how many people paid it much heed.

The tip suggests that one should decide what size pet you can accommodate in your house or apartment. Allow enough room for the animal to sleep, eat, play and exercise.

"Be sure to select a pet that will fit into your family's style of living," the tip concludes.

We are certain that this tip has much merit and it is good advice to follow, especially that bit about selecting a pet to fit into your family style of living.

But in the case of our "Missy", the spoiled Boxer that rules our household we seem to find it necessary to fit into her style of living rather than the other way around.

As a f'instance, the backyard gate was left open one day last week, so "Missy" decided to see the world.

We searched the neighborhood in vain when we came home and found that the dog had disappeared.

About 9 p.m. almost nine hours after "Missy" had taken off, she scratched on the door to be let in.

We haven't the slightest idea where she had been, although we know she tried to tell us as she bounced around the house showing her pleasure for being home again.

What concerned us, of course, was how "Missy" made her way through traffic.

We shiver even now as we visualize that capricious canine prancing down Bascom or some other heavily-traveled throughfare unmindful of the squealing brakes and near-wrecks.

Anyway, that tip that the vets suggest makes good sense. . .

THIS WINTER MORE emphasis will be placed on fireplaces for heat than probably any time since the pioneer days.

The fuel shortage has caused fireplace wood to become highly important as a source of heat in the house.

In light of this the county weights and measures department recently issued some pertinent advice and information pertaining to fireplace wood.

We learned, for example, that in California wood for fuel purposes may be sold only by the cord, with few exceptions. And all deliveries of wood must be accompanied by a bill or voucher stating the amount of wood delivered and the name and address of the seller, and the date of sale.

Did you know that?

And what is a cord?

A cord of wood is 128 cubic feet. A cord of firewood cut in pieces 24 inches long when well stowed will fill a frame 4 feet high and 16 feet long; wood 20 inches long should fill a frame 4 feet high and 19 and one-fifth feet long.

Robert Horger, county director of weights and measures, suggests that a person can check his purchase by marking off the proper dimensions on the back fence or side of the house within the marked off area.

Horger adds that each year his department receives a number of valid complaints when wood vendors fail to deliver the full amount represented. In some instances, he points out, the shortages have been in excess of 30 per cent of the amount paid for.

We don't know about you, but all this was mighty revealing to us.

We have bought wood by the cord and half-cord for many years and we haven't had the slightest idea if we were getting full value for our money.

Even after all this information, we doubt if we could tell a cord if we saw one anyway.

POST OFFICE PERSONNEL have been criticized severely for sloppy service and delays in mail delivery.

Some of the criticism has been deserved.

However, there are times when the postal people rise above the call of duty.

As a case in point we received a letter recently addressed merely to "George Vierhus, Campbell, Calif.".

No street address. . no business. . .no zip.

It was delivered without delay.

WE DOUBT THIS means much but we understand that the median income in Campbell is $11,040.

Median is the middle, as you know, not the average.

In other words, there are supposed to be as many making more than $11,040 as there are making less.

We note that Los Altos Hills has the highest median income, $23,728, and Gilroy the lowest, $9,019. In the county, that is.

As we said, we aren't sure what this all means.

However, we suppose there might be some interest in knowing how one's paycheck ranks.

The median income in Los Gatos is $11,881, if you happen to like comparisons and the county median is $11,280.

We suppose we started thinking about this median income thing when we learned that the social security tax will be taken out of the first $13,800 next year. (This year it was $10,800).

Bike routes are important

Before the fuel and energy crisis had reached such a critical state we had advocated the establishment of bike trails and bike routes throughout the area.

In addition to bicycling being valuable from both the exercise and recreational point of view, we maintained that conceivably it could reduce smog, if taken up on a wide enough basis.

There are no exhaust fumes to pollute the air, we pointed out.

Now that the fuel and energy situation is becoming increasingly serious, we submit bicycling has gained a number of additional points.

We have long emphasized that we felt that bike riding would become even more popular than it is, if better bikeways were developed.

We know many people who would enjoy pedaling to various spots, if it were not for the fact they are taking their lives in their hands in competing with the automobile traffic.

Thus, if the automobile traffic is lessened because of fuel curtailment measures, we believe more bicyclists will take to their wheels.

At the present time the youth commission is working vigorously on a citywide bikeway, bike trail, bike route project that would be coordinated with the countywide program and, in addition, would specify city bike routes.

The Youth Commission began working on the project before the fuel and energy situation had become so serious. Now the work that the young people has done with respect to the bike picture locally has taken on a greater importance.

We are well aware there are some critics of this bike-emphasis that has become of increasing importance. There are some who claim that bikes and their riders are a menace and should be prohibited from the thoroughfares.

Quite obviously the bike is not going to replace the auto during these critical times.

On the other hand, there are many occasions where bikes can be used instead of automobiles to the advantage of all concerned.

No one seems to know how serious the fuel and energy crisis will get before it levels off.

It could be that some who take up bikes will never go back to cars, even if it were possible.

Precautions suggested for a safe Christmas

This Christmas don't let the "jingle bells" heard in your driveway be those of a fire engine!

Failure to pay attention to fire safety in regard to Christmas trees, lights and other decorations can inject tragedy into this traditionally joyful season, warns Fire Chief Gene Borden as the busy holiday season nears.

He offers these suggestions for keeping Christmas a firesafe and happy time:

Natural trees should be fresh-looking and firm-needled when selected. Saw off the butt an inch above the original cut, stand the tree in water, and keep it in water until it is disposed of — soon after Christmas Day. Don't rely on do-it-yourself flameproofing treatment, as none is truly effective.

Set up the tree away from heat and where it won't block doorways or stairs. Artificial trees should be clearly marked as made of slow-burning materials.

Look for the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label on trees with built-in electrical systems. With metal trees, use only indirect lighting to avoid the possibility of electric shock.

Check lighting strings for frayed and cracked wires, loose connections, broken sockets. Replace only with UL-labeled sets. Bulbs made in the U.S. generally are safest; imported bulbs may have dangerous hot spots. Electric cord sets with built-in fuses are strongly recommended. Always turn off tree and other indoor holiday lighting when leaving the house or retiring for the night. For outdoor lighting, use only sets UL-listed for this purpose.

Noncombustible materials such as metal, glass and asbestos should be used for decorations as much as possible. Make sure cotton batting, flock and decorating paper are flameproofed. Natural evergreen decorations dry quickly, burn readily, so keep them well removed from candles, the fireplace and other heat. Don't use polystyrene foam for table or mentle decorations where there are lighted candles.

Dispose of gift wrappings promptly and safely — NOT in the fireplace.

Be especially careful during the Christmas season to keep matches and cigarette lighters out of the rech of children, and try to keep the youngsters from playing beneath or near the Christmas tree.

Finally, Chief Borden emphasizes, it is especially important during this busy time of the year that children never be left alone or without proper supervision — even for a short time — and that every family have a well-rehearsed escape plan for use in case of a fire emergency.

Christmas and ecology festivities at Westmont

By DIANE DONIELSON

Tonight is the annual free Christmas concert with the Westmont orchestra and choir. The performance begins at 8 p.m. and promises to be excellent.

Tomorrow the GAA faces the Campbell Bucs in hockey and basketball. Saturday the wrestling team travels to compete in the San Lorenzo Tournament. And then two weeks of holiday to laze around the house or go skiing or even travel south to find some sunshine. However, many Westmont students will be spending this vacation earning money.

THIS WEEK IS CHRISTMAS WEEK

Keeping in tune with the holiday season, Westmont has decked herself out in all the finery. The doors of those once dreary rooms have suddenly changed into things of beauty, the halls turned into festive corridors, and the front of the school altered to welcome Santa and his elves.

LAST WEEK WAS ECOLOGY WEEK

Westmont has decided to combat the pollution problem in its own way. Last week a student council sponsored assembly against pollution was held. Guests included Eric the Owl and the "Do-you-know-why-I-talk-to-you-this-way-Man".

The drama department enacted a typical Westmont lunch hour, complete with food throwing. Those funny looking gray containers that often seem foreign to the students of Westmont were painted bright colors to attract the attention of the students with poor eyesight. Notices were placed in the bulletin to inform the students about the purpose of these receptacles. Each class was judged on the cleanliness of its assigned area, with the winning class receiving $25.

THE STUDENT BODY CARD COMPETITION

The total student body card sales for the school was 76 per cent. The sophomores edged the freshmen by 3 per cent, seniors beat the juniors by 1 per cent. The final results were: sophomores 79.4 per cent, freshmen 79.1 per cent, seniors 73 per cent and juniors 72 per cent. Due to the closeness of the top classes the student council let the sophomores split the prize. Each of those classes received $25.

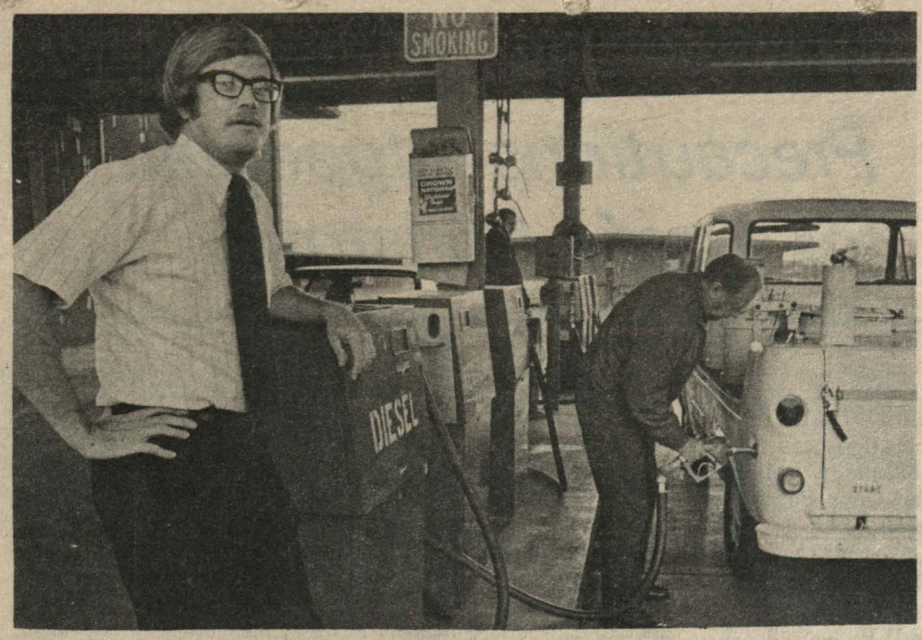
'The price goes up to consumer and why should a wholesaler sell to us when he can sell to the consumer at a higher price?

The life of a buyer in a time when nobody's selling



JACK BURSCH, county supervising buyer, is in charge of supplying counties, cities and schools with everything from groceries to gasoline.

By SUSAN COHEN

ONLY THE UNFLAPPABLE need apply.

If that were a written requirement for the job Jack Bursch holds, he would fit it easily.

Blond and slim, he leans back in his chair like a man of leisure, surrounded by white walls and golf trophies in an office through which over $10 million in purchases and 325 contracts were negotiated last year.

The phone rings. A school district wants to know how it is going to get gasoline. The county hospital calls, worried about the effect of the butchers' strike on their food supply. A county department warns that their paper supply is low. And, for the first time in the ten years Bursch has been its buyer, the county has sent out million dollar contracts and not received a single bid.

"PRETTY SOON 'emergency' doesn't mean that much," Bursch admits.

Bursch, 35, and a Campbell resident, has been buying division supervisor in the General Services administration purchasing division since 1965. A graduate of the University of the Pacific in international relations, he is in charge of six buyers who specialize in supplying various county, city and school district wants.

Different agencies combine on county contracts, but on one item or another every city and school district in the county and some other smaller counties either has been supplied through a county contract or has bought items out of the county warehouse.

"It's a cooperative purchasing program that increases our volume so that everyone gets a better price," Bursch explains.

BUT, THESE DAYS, the problem seems to be in getting any price.

Take paper, a $750,000 contract the county let out for bid this year.

"Before, we had a lot of interest, everyone would bid for it," Bursch says, "we'd get five or six bids." This year there were none.

"Prices are increasing so fast that vendors don't want to obligate themselves for a year," Bursch explains, adding that paper prices have gone up 80 per cent in the last six months.

The county has been forced to operate without a contract, getting oral price quotes that are guaranteed for only three months at a time.

"We've attempted to load up a little bit to get ahead but we can't really stockpile because of lack of funds," Bursch says.

Or take canned fruit for the hospital. There isn't any available because of a bad crop year.

OR CLOTHING, towels, sheets for hospitals, schools and jails. "Prices have gone up on cotton so much that they don't want to bid and there's a lead time up to six months." Cotton, which cost 23 cents per pound last February, cost 92 cents in September.

The case has been most severe in gasoline, a contract which the county will have to put out for bid in January and for which they have already been told they will probably receive no bidders. But, Bursch says, the suppliers have assured him they are confident that the federal government will step in and allocate gasoline for public agencies.

Bursch sums it up by saying that "for one year now, it's been a sellers' market. We could see it coming in certain areas," he adds, "but we didn't realize it was such a long-ranged thing."

"AS SOON AS there is the threat of a shortage of anything the average consumer goes out and buys more than he normally buys," he explains.

"The price goes up to consumers and why should a wholesaler sell to us when he can sell to a consumer at a higher price?"

Bursch predicts that an increasing number of contracts will be negotiated with a discount from a list price. This means that instead of a wholesaler guaranteeing the county a set price for a year, he is asked only to guarantee the county a certain percentage of discount from the going price. "He can still get his profit margin in there," Bursch says, "and it insures us a contract at a good price."

BURSCH IS CHARITABLE when discussing the motives behind the various shortages.

"There is conjecture that some people are taking advantage of it, but we don't know what their expenses are."

His department has established priorities, setting Valley Medical center first.

"If somebody is running out of something there it is almost automatically an emergency," he says.

"We get so many phone calls saying there are emergencies but the hospital takes priority over somebody who needs carbon paper."

A telegram on Bursch's desk which has come in that morning advises him that as of that day, prices on the diesel fuel with which the county supplies its buses and machinery at the rate of over 50,000 gallons a month had gone up four cents a gallon.

Bursch reads it and grins. "They don't give you much warning, do they?"

Does he ever panic? "What good would it do?" he asks.

$4.7 million pact

Contract approved for propane buses

THE COUNTY has approved a $4.7 million contract for 134 propane-powered medium-sized buses, but the hurdle of federal approval remains to be jumped.

The transit district expects word from the Urban Transportation administration (UMTA) this week on whether the contract with Highway Products of Ohio, approved by a 3-2 vote of the board of supervisors, will be authorized.

The county had received approval to negotiate in a letter from UMTA dated Nov. 23, but only "while UMTA evaluates the justification for requiring propane," the letter stated.

UMTA HAS PREVIOUSLY made clear its preference for diesel powered buses, which, they have said, would have brought the county more than the single bid it received for propane buses.

That single bid, originally $5,759,454 was negotiated down in a series of marathon sessions which eventually involved representatives of the county taxpayer's association, the board of supervisors and the transportation commission.

The negotiations brought the price down from $42,981 per bus to the final figure of $35,044, eliminating or changing specifications on items from speakers to pay schedules.

SUPERVISORS Sig Sanchez and Dan McCorquodale favored rebidding and taking a chance of delaying delivery rather than a chance of public skepticism over the propriety of negotiating.

If UMTA approves, the contract calls for 90 coaches to be delivered in the spring and the remaining 44 in the summer.

The county plans a new bus system, which will combine set routes and door-to-door delivery, beginning in July.

San Felipe water predicted by 1980

If absolutely everything goes right, the San Felipe water project could conceivably be ready to go by 1980, directors of the Santa Clara Valley Water district were informed last week. The cost to bring such water to this valley will be at least $200 million, much of it to come from the federal government, the board was also told.

The information came in a briefing for the board by staff in connection with the grand water project which would bring water from the Delta down a canal then through a tunnel underground to the Santa Clara Valley. The underground tunnel would be constructed below Pacheco Pass.

Federal money for the project, a dream of some water experts going back 30 years, is very uncertain, however. "The last indication I've had," Donald Currlin, special consultant to the district on San Felipe, told the board, "is that the money is not going to be easy to get." With the federal government expected to contribute about $150 million of the projected cost, the future of the project — already questioned by some environmentalists — is totally dependent on federal finances.

District board members were also told they will be asked to approve later a bond issue which would go to voters in relationship to local costs for San Felipe.

With a projected date of November 1975, voters would be asked to okay up to $50 million in bonds. Bond money would be used by the district to pay its expenses of hooking up to the San Felipe pipeline.

District staff have now prepared a chart to show all of the components which would have to fit properly if the San Felipe water project could be finished by 1980.

By PAT SAFFORD

"WOW! A PHONE WOMAN," exclaimed a man as we took our place at a table in the Kaiser hospital cafeteria. Target of the comment was an attractive brunette, "Bunny" Knight, first female PBX installer for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph in Santa Clara valley.

On this job just three weeks, the 22-year-old woman worked as a telephone operator for two years before transferring to residential installation work 18 months ago. "Being an operator is the height of boredom," she explained, "and the top pay for an operator is an installer's starting pay."

Bunny is part of a seven "man" crew that handled PBX work for the hospital and five large firms as well as smaller businesses in the Santa Clara and Campbell areas. For the next two months she'll be getting her on the job training before going to school to learn more detailed PBX installation.

THINGS WERE UPTIGHT with the rest of the crew for the first few days, according to her boss, Les Howard, plant supervisor foreman. She's accepted now, he added, and things are back to normal. "The language has been toned down a little, though," he laughed.

Bunny — her real name is Benita — got her nickname by being born a week before Easter. She moved to this area from Sacramento last September when her engineer husband was transferred here.

Reaction to her in the male-dominated field has been mixed. Some of the younger men and woman have yelled "right on" as they spot her on the job, outfitted with her 10-pound utility belt. Criticism has come from some women, she said, usually those middle age or older. Her work has been slowed down at times by men who insist on carrying the ladder for her. "I could have handled the ladder more easily," she said, "being used to it." Instead, she let them help.

But in Sacramento, one man became incensed when she arrived to install the telephone. "He called me part of the Communist conspiracy," she smiled, "and said I should be home making babies."

WHAT ABOUT THE women's lib movement? "I'm a people libber," she said, "I worked to put my husband through school and am working now to make our life better. Once you have kids though, you should stay home with them."

Bunny finds installation work interesting. "It's not as structured," she said, "you're on your own more and can set your own pace."

"Bunny's post is unique," says public relations man Bob Brown. "She's the first female PBX installer in this area. Brown went on to explain that PBX installation calls for introductory skills few women have, because they have not — until recently — held installation jobs.

But the future is brighter. "As of September, Brown notes, "there were roughly 146 female employees in what had been traditional male jobs at Pacific Telephone in this area."

Out in the parking lot of the hospital as Bunny unhooked the ladder from the company truck for a picture, a man bearing a strong resemblence to Bobby Riggs of tennis fame strolled by. "Holy Cow," he yelled, "Do you think she'll ever make it?"

"She already has," retorted our photographer.

Bunny stops to chat with male switchboard operator Frank Fuentas, central appointment clerk at Kaiser hospital (far left). The job of PBX installer requires carrying a 10-pound utility belt slung from the waist, carrying your own ladder and crawling into dimly lit crannies — all of which not too long ago would have been considered man's work. But Bunny, a self-tagged "people libber," loves it.

Clergymen join in program to bring community together

Coordinated by a committee of six local clergymen and a city councilman, the program is seeking volunteers to offer their homes for an evening during the holidays. ARE PLAYOFFS WORTH IT?

AS LONG AS THERE have been organized sports, there have been leagues to bind teams together.

And as long as there have been leagues, the teams have battled to see just who was the best.

But for years and years that was as far as it would go. Each league would have their champion but no one really knew which team was the best in the county.

So they started a county play-off to find out who reigned as best around. But that wasn't enough. So they started the Central Coast section play-offs to find out who was the best team in the CCS.

And that's where it stands. But the question is, should they have ever changed things at all?

For years everyone got along fine without post season play. The football players showed up for basketball practice on time; the basketball players showed up for baseball on time; and members of league championship teams walked feeling like the champions.

BUT NOW PLAYERS involved in CCS play-offs are late if they wish to play a sport in the following season. And only one team can carry on a winning memory.

The play-offs are great for the champs. The team that goes all the way can celebrate their championship for years to come.

But to get that CCS title, they had to have beaten the champions of other leagues. So what it does is steal some of the glamour away from the league champs who don't go all the way.

"I haven't talked to a coach yet who's been in it and liked it," said James Lick football coach Al Cementina whose Comets have played in the event twice in its three year existence. "We should really stand back and see just what we're doing."

"IF WE COULD WEIGH all of the arguments for the play-offs with those against, I'm sure we'd find more against," added the coach. "I hope this doesn't sound like sour grapes now — I was talking this way before the play-offs ever started."

Cementina has long been opposed to the post-season event in football. "A 14 game season is just too much for the kids," he has said many times. He added, "We'd play again, though, if the chance came up."

Oak Grove head coach Ken Castles, whose club reached the play-offs a year earlier has mixed emotions regarding the event.

"I look at it just like another season," he said. "It's great for the teams that get into the finals. It stops all speculation about who is really the best."

"ALL BUT ONE TEAM, though, has to finish on a dismal note," he added. "But I'd never say no that a team I was coaching wouldn't go. I'd owe it to the players and we'd owe it to the school and the rest of the league to do our best. Your representing more than just yourself."

"It's just in our society to find out who's the best," said Castles.

But maybe it's time to weigh the pros and cons.

The only play-off benefit that I can see is coming out with a team that is supposed to be the best in the CCS area (which might not even always be true).

By keeping athletes involved in a sport that long, they get a late start in the next season and thusly, athletes start specializing in athletics on the high school level when they should be competing in three sports a year if they wish.

There's always the chance of an injury in a post season game when players are tired from a long regular season.

IT'S COLD IN California in December. The players start the season in 100 degree weather and finish with the mercury near 30. Fans in this area rarely brave the cold and CCS turnouts have been rather poor.

And then there's the fact that there can be only one winner, which is probably one of the most important arguments against post season play-offs.

Maybe instead of a post season bowl of champions there could be an all-star game. What about the north county all-stars vs. the south county all-stars to finish off the prep season.

It's a continuing problem that will long be rehashed and rediscussed. But it's time to find out just who the play-offs benefit and if, in fact, they do provide any positive outcome.

Vikings, Dons meet

Rivals renew combat in wrestling crucial

Whether it be on a gridiron or wrestling mat, whenever the West Valley Vikings and De Anza Dons confront each other in athletic competition they go all out.

The Vikings and Dons renew their bitter rivalry Friday, Dec. 14 at De Anza in an early season Camino Norte conference wrestling crucial. The CNC titanic gets started at 4 p.m.

West Valley had its pre-season record sink to 2-3 recently when they dropped a double-dual meet to Chabot and San Jose city college, a pair of Golden Gate conference powerhouses.

The Vikes started out well against SJCC by winning the first two matches. Bruce Lemos (Los Gatos) got the Vikes off on the right foot with a 6-0 win at 118. Jamie Wheeler (Campbell) upped the Vike's lead to a 9-0 with a pin at 126 in a time of 1:01.

But after Wheeler's triumph the Vikes dropped six successive bouts before Greg Wacker (Prospect) interrupted the skein with a 1-1 draw at 190.

Harold Robertson (De Mar) registered an 8-2 decision at heavyweight to conclude the match.

"I thought we'd do better against San Jose," admitted Vike head coach Jim Root. "The difference was that the close matches went their (SJCC) way."

Three of the Viking's losses were decided by two points or less. Mike Mullis (Branham) suffered a 4-2 loss at 142 while Mike Donecho (Campbell) dropped his 150 pound match 7-6 and Kevin Locke (Buchser) fell 3-2 at 167. Ben Navarrete (Santa Clara) lost his bout 5-1.

Against a strong Chabot team, the defending state champs, Root elected to wrestle most of the Vike's back-up men, resulting in a 35-2 loss.

"Our main objective against Chabot was to get as many fellows to wrestle as we could," Root pointed out. "We would have no doubt done better if we had used our regular line-up."

Robertson saw to it that the Vikings avoided being shut-out by wrestling to a 1-1 draw at heavyweight after WVC had lost the first nine matches.

Steve Duran (Santa Clara), 126, Louis Eagan (Branham), 150, and Wacker, 190, all turned in fine efforts despite losing.

The Vikes also participated in the Skyline invitational, coming in sixth out of 15 teams. Chabot won the tournament title with 134½ points. SJCC barely edged out West Valley for fifth, 52-50½.

Wheeler was the Vike's only individual champion, claiming the 118 pound championship with four wins in as many matches.

The Viking grappler started the afternoon by winning his first three bouts in shut-out style, 13-0, 9-0 and 6-0. He was finally scored upon in the finals but still pulled out a 5-2 victory.

Lemos, 126, Navarrete, 177, and Robertson, heavyweight, all made it to the consolation championship rounds before having to settle for fourths.

Wheelchair cagers issue a challenge

Playing basketball while standing up is quite different than playing basketball while sitting down, as several community leaders and Bay Area personalities will find out Friday night at Pioneer high school.

The San Jose Spinners, a wheelchair basketball squad, have challenged a group of state and community leaders to a benefit basketball game which will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

The Spinners, second year members of the northern California wheelchair basketball league, will take on a team which will consist of Dan McCorquodale and Walter Karabian, California assemblymen, Jerry Smith, mayor of Saratoga, and Dave Mendonca of the San Jose SUN.

All proceeds of the game will go towards buying needed equipment for the Spinners.

Price of admission for the game will be $2 for adults and $1 for persons 18 and under.

FALLEN CONQUEROR- After his club had rolled to the West Valley athletic league title, this Del Mar basketball player grieves after he and his Dons bowed in defeat in the Central coast section play-offs. One of the strongest arguments against such play-offs is that even champions have to come out losers.

Six straight losses

Rebuilding Vikes try to halt court skid

REBUILDING YEARS tend to take their toll on win-loss records.

The West Valley college Viking basketball team, 22-7 a year ago, has run into that problem.

The Vikings, a young and inexperienced club, suffered their sixth loss in as many outings last Thursday night in Pleasant Hill when they dropped an 87-68 loss to Diablo Valley.

West Valley will try to snap a six game losing string Thursday in Aptos when they battle Moorpark of Los Angeles in the opening round of the Cabrillo tournament. Game time is 9 p.m.

Despite the Vike's loss to DVC, West Valley had its best balanced scoring attack of the season. For the first time this year three Vikings broke into double figures in the same game.

CRAIG PERKINS (Saratoga) topped WVC in scoring with 15 points. Mark Bonvechio (Leigh) and Paul Arace (Del Mar), a pair of ex-all-SUN players, were right behind Perkins with 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Earlier in the week the Vikings suffered a 73-59 setback at the hands of the College of San Mateo. The Bulldogs led by just three points at the half before outscoring WVC 41-30 in the second half.

Bill Becker (Wilcox) was the Vike's lone bright spot in the game. The big 6'8" had his best game of the season, drilling in 14 points and pulling down eight rebounds.

Bonvechio, who has been West Valley's top point getter in the early going, popped in 11 points.

At the recent San Jose Fiesta classic, West Valley was unable to defend its 1972 tournament crown.

THE VIKE'S WERE knocked out of title contention in the opening round by rival De Anza, the Dons romping to an 88-68 triumph despite Perkins' 18 point outburst.

In the consolation championship, the Vikings let a four point half time lead slip away from them and wound up falling to host San Jose city college 62-53.

Bonvechio, who connected on his first five shots from the floor and six of first seven, turned in a spectacular one man effort. The ex-Longhorn all-league ended the night as the game's top scorer with 30 points.

The freshman forward bombed in 12 of 33 shots (36 per cent) on the evening from the floor and was a perfect six for six from the free throw line.

But after Bonvechio's 30 point splurge the Vike's next highest scorers were Bill Magnuson (Blackford) and Mark Williams (Los Gatos), each finishing with six points. Bill Gerth (Westmont) chipped in with five points.

West Valley as a team connected on just 29 per cent of their shots (22 of 75) compared to the Jaguar's sizzling 55 per cent (30 of 55).

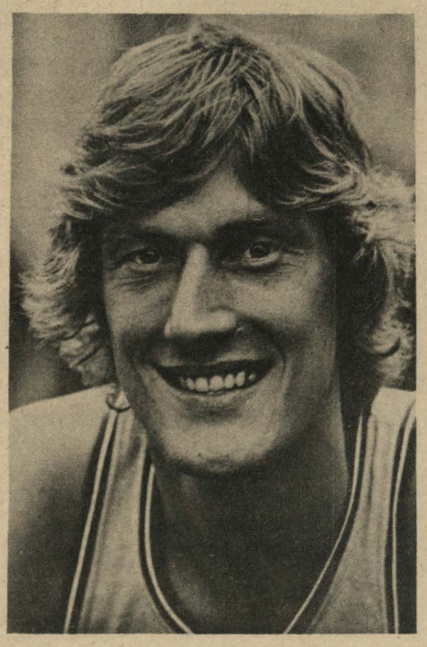
CLYDE LEE
GOLDEN STATE WARRIORS
Forward

One of the most underrated forwards in the National Basketball Association, Lee ranks as one of the top defensive forwards in the league. Clyde was at his best in the playoffs against Milwaukee last year, including a 19 rebound performance in the Warriors' 100-86 series clincher. Lee was the Warriors' number one draft pick in 1966 and has been a regular ever since his rookie season. His best scoring season, average-wise, was in 1967-68 when he averaged 11.9 points a game. His career single game high was a 35 point effort against the Bucks in '68. He once pulled down 30 rebounds in a game against the Knicks. Twice in his career Lee has pulled down over 1,000 caroms in a season. 1972-73 RECORD — GOLDEN GATE: G, 66; MIN., 1,476; FG, 170; ATT, 365; PCT., 466; REB, 598; AST, 34; TP, 414; AVE, 6.3; HG, 21.



Seals, Warriors continue campaigns

A short road trip will come to an end Wednesday evening in Pittsburgh for the California Golden Seals before they return home to the Oakland Coliseum arena for a Friday night game with the Montreal Canadians.

Injuries have plagued the Seals all season long. They have lost five players to injuries since their last trip to New York in late November.

Forward Gary Croteau is back but the other four weren't able to make the road trip east.

And with all of their problems, the Seals are expecting the Stanley Cup champion Canadians Friday at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the Seal's ticket office at the Coliseum (635-2505) and at local ticket agencies in the San Jose area.

And while the Seals are battling the injury bug, the Golden State Warriors are battling for first place in the National Basketball Association's Pacific division.

The Warriors, who battled Houston at Oakland's Coliseum Tuesday, Dec. 11, hit the road for Portland for a Friday night game at 8 p.m. The game will be televised in this area on KTVU channel 2.

Saturday the Warriors are home for an 8:05 p.m. battle with the Capital Bullets. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the coliseum or ticket outlets in the area. The game will be aired via KEEN radio (1370).

Closed circuit coverage in SJ for Quarry-Shavers fight

He's not directly involved, but world heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman has a real interest in the upcoming Jerry Quarry-Earnie Shavers bout set for Madison Square Gardens in New York Friday.

Foreman is interested in the heavyweight fight because he just might put his title on the line against the winner.

KO MASTER — Earnie Shavers is a real knock-out master and will try to add another to his credit Friday against top heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry. The bout will be aired to San Jose via closed circuit television.

The scheduled 12 rounder will be aired to San Jose via closed circuit television Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Jay McCabe hall near the Civic auditorium.

Tickets are on sale for $6 at Carroll and Bishop, Fontanetti's Sporting Goods and all Ticketron outlets.

Shavers boasts a 41-2 career record with 40 of his wins by knock-out.

Quarry, since getting knocked out by Muhammad Ali in June of 1972, has come back to whip four opponents, three by knock-out. He is currently ranked the number three heavyweight contender.

The virtually unknown Shavers broke into the world boxing scene when he KO'd Jimmy Ellis in the first round of their fight — with one punch. It was his fifth straight knock-out win, four in first round action and one in the second.

Cable Car contenders eye national rankings

People who saw the nationally televised Maryland-UCLA basketball game on December 1 had to wonder just how different the final score would have been had the game been played on a neutral court.

A loss is a loss, it's true, but Maryland solidly established itself as one of the nation's outstanding clubs one capable of winning the NCAA championship. They'll be meeting anothe great team in the opening round of the seventh annual Cable Car classic, coming up on Friday, Dec. 21, at the Oakland Coliseum arena.

First round games pit three-time classic champ Santa Clara against St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in the 7 p.m. opener. At 9 p.m. Maryland meets USF, the defending champion of the classic.

As always, this year's Cable Car classic looms as an event that will have a major effect on the national rankings. Howell, Baldinger spark Westmont's 2nd

Warriors like other tourney hosts

By DAVE MENDONCA

Like Oak Grove and James Lick, Westmont high's basketball team made it to the finals of their own cage tournament last Saturday night.

And like the Eagles and Comets, the Warriors had to settle for second place.

The Warriors, after dumping Leland 55-44 and Los Gatos 58-55 to make it to the finals, dropped a 59-51 decision to Monta Vista last Saturday night.

It marked the third consecutive year that Monta Vista has claimed the Westmont invitational championship.

"They (Monta Vista) are just a good team that doesn't make that many mistakes. They didn't make many errors but we did. That was the difference in the game," noted Warrior boss Gary Brinck.

And the mistakes that hurt Westmont the most were personal fouls. Monta Vista received 24 free shots from the charity stripe and converted 17 times. Westmont, on the other hand, had just four opportunities to sink free throws and cashed in on three of their shots.

The Matador's advantage at the free throw line nullified the Warrior's better shooting from the field, Westmont canning 24 field goals to 21 scored by MV.

Bryan Howell, picked to the all-tourney team along with teammate Brad Baldinger, was the Warrior's top scorer on the night, as he had been in Westmont's previous two games.

The Westmont center, abandoning his normal forward spot with center David Watson on the sidelines with a back injury, canned 19 points and yanked down 14 rebounds.

The big Warrior pivot man averaged 20.3 points and 16 rebounds per game during the tournament.

Baldinger netted 14 points and Jeff Martens popped in 11 as the Warrior's only other players in double figures.

In the battle for third place in the tournament, Branham edged Los Gatos in a low scoring affair, 38-33. Saratoga decked Pioneer 53-47 in the consolation championship.

To get into the finals Westmont had to register a thrilling overtime win against Los Gatos. Westmont went into the final period with the Wildcats trailing 41-34. But the Warriors staged a gutsy fourth quarter rally to send the game into extra minutes tied at 50-50.

In overtime Howell again sparkled, canning seven of the Warrior's eight points during the fifth period. Robbie Stegman, hobbled most of the tournament with an injury, tallied Westmont's only other point during the stanza.

Howell finished the game with 20 points and 18 rebounds. Baldinger chipped in with 12 points and Brent Norman and Brian Eisleven each added nine.

In the Warrior's tourney opener win over Leland, Howell netted 22 points and corralled 16 caroms. Norman tallied 11 points.

In other first round action, Los Gatos dumped Pioneer 53-49, Monta Vista crushed Saratoga 71-54 and Branham bested Cupertino 58-44.

In other second round games, Monta Vista slipped past Branham 45-34, Saratoga edged Cupertino 51-48 and Pioneer outlasted Leland 49-45.

Saratoga dominates

McCammon, Bondelie go both ways on all-WVAL

Few were surprised when the all-West Valley athletic league football team was released recently and the Saratoga Falcons had walked away dominating the show — because that's just the way it was during the 1973 season.

Saratoga, who rolled through the WVAL with a 9-0 record, picked up five spots on the first offensive team and three more on the number one defensive unit.

The Falcons, slated to play for the Central coast section championship Friday against St. Francis (7:30 p.m. at Spartan stadium), nabbed four more offensive positions on the second team and clinched another defensive spot. Four Falcon defenders were honorably mentioned.

Only two players in the league were picked to both the first offensive and defensive teams, though, and neither were Falcons.

Ken Bondelie of Del Mar was named an offensive guard and defensive lineman and Ross McCammon of Prospect was tagged an offensive tackle and defensive lineman.

Del Mar's Wade Fearnside picked up a first team berth in the defensive backfield.

For Campbell high, tight end Tom Guardino was a first team offensive pick and Terry Fitzpatrick grabbed a first team berth on the defensive line. Westmont's Tom Espinoza was also in the first defensive line.

Campbell put six players on the two second teams. Tackle Jim Guardino and running back Tom Davis were both named to the second offense. Jeff Stanford, defensive lineman, Tom Bojorques, defensive end, Charlie Wilcox, linebacker, and Larry LaMoine, defensive back, were second team defensive men.

Linebacker Scott Greco and defensive back Dave Pursey were the only Camden players picked to the second team. Cougar defensive end Kurt Nelson was honorably mentioned.

For Blackford, Dan Bongiovanni was named a second team guard on the offense and a second team linebacker on the defense to lead the Braves. Charlie Husa was a second team defensive lineman. Running back Tom Blandford and defensive back Wayne Hagin were honorable mention picks for the Braves.

Pat Owens was named to the second team offensive backfield and center Sheldon Henderson and defensive lineman Charlie Fought were honorably mentioned for Westmont.

Fearnside was an honorable mention selection at wide receiver for Del Mar. Other Dons on the honorable mention list were Kirk Poppey, running back, Jeff Toews, tackle and defensive line, Ron Tedesco, guard and defensive line, and Mickey Plesha, quarterback.

Honorable mention plaudits also went to running back Scott Feldman and linebacker Glen Holtz of Prospect.

Saratoga's Otis Page was tabbed the lineman of the year in the WVAL and Leigh's Rick Foley snared best back plaudits.

Fund-raising underway

Mites prepare for Canada trip

By DICK SPARRER

HOW MANY PEOPLE can remember what they were doing when they were eight years old?

Most kids about that age go to school, eat, sleep and watch television — things they're likely to soon forget.

But a bunch of local kids in that age range are getting ready to take a trip that they'll never forget — a trip to Montreal, Canada, to play ice hockey.

The Santa Clara Valley hockey association Mites have been invited to Montreal to play in a hockey tournament with teams from that area.

"Larry Newman (father of one of the Mite boys) was in Montreal for the summer," said Mite coach Andy Buchanan, explaining the Montreal invitation. "They saw his boy skate and were impressed. Larry told them 'If you think he's good, you should see the others back home'. One thing led to another, and we got special permission to play."

The local hockey team, for boys six to eight, is now campaigning to raise money to make the trip north.

"NO MATTER HOW the kids do, if they make a good showing or get bombed, the parents will have to sit up and take notice," said Buchanan. "But I think the kids will do well."

The Mites, based at the Eastridge ice arena, had little trouble in league play last season when they rolled to the northern California title and are having less trouble this year.

The Montreal skaters are a little older and have more years of ice work under their belts just because of the obvious conditions.

"They generally start skating at a younger age there," said Buchanan, a native of the Montreal area. "I feel that they will have a little more experience than we have. But we're shooting for the maximum that we think they have, and if they show any less we'll be better off."

COACH TO SON ADVICE — Andy Buchanan, coach of the Santa Clara Valley hockey association Mites, gives some fatherly advice to son Andy, the club's goalie, in a Northern California junior hockey game. Buchanan and his Mite team have been invited to complete in an ice hockey tournament in Montreal in January and are now attempting to raise funds to make the trip.

BUCHANAN IS CONFIDENT that his boys can ably represent the area.

"We expect to walk away, if not with everything, with a good showing," he said. "We have confidence in our kids. They really come to life when they're down or in a close game. I certainly don't think we'll lose! We have a scrappy little bunch."

"We really think they have a job cut out for themselves," he added. "But we hold our boys in high esteem. It should really be interesting."

Buchanan came to the area from Montreal in 1965 after a career in hockey that took him all through the junior program.

Since coming to California he has been active as a player in the Belmont senior league along with Bill Breault, the Mite assistant coach.

"Bill and I work closely together and we get along real well," said Buchanan. "We don't disagree and that's important."

"THE KIDS HAVE REALLY developed maturity and have really developed their hockey ability," added Buchan. "Looking at the potential they have now, many could go a long way in hockey."

The Mites are scheduled to leave for Montreal Jan. 17 for the tournament to be held Jan. 19 and 20 and Jan. 26 and 27.

The Mites have raised $2,000 already but need more so that all of the kids and coaches can make the trip.

Anyone interested in contributing to the Mite's effort can call Buchanan (739-8330, ext. 271, or 377-3043) or stop by at the Barrel of Boots, 3970 S. Bascom ave., for information.

Friday, Dec. 14, the Seals will host the Montreal Canadiens and the local Mites will be on hand to meet the players and try for further support.

"BARRY KEAST (Seals trainer) and all of the Seals have been great with all of their help," said Buchanan.

On Monday, Dec. 17, MacDonald's restaurants El Camino at Scott boulevard and Homestead road at Lawrence expressway will donate 50 per cent of their profits from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. to the Mite cause.

"We're looking forward to going to Montreal," added Buchanan. "We're going up there with the idea to do battle and come home a winner!"

CANADA BOUND — The Mites of the Santa Clara Valley hockey association are set to compete in an ice hockey tournament in January in Montreal, Canada. Ricky Pitta and his Mite mates will make the trip if enough money can be raised in December.

Opponents held to 4 points

Mites—masters of the hockey hat trick

HAT TRICKS have become a dime a dozen for the Eastridge Mites of the Northern California Junior Hockey association. But their opponents can't even begin to make the same claim.

A hat trick occurs when a single player scores three or more goals in a single game. Many times this year the local Mites have had more than one player accomplish the feat, the team already scoring 107 points in the nine games already played.

Not one player has notched a hat trick against the Mites and their goalie Andy Buchanan. The Mites have not given up three goals to any team in a single game this year and have allowed just four goals all year.

The Mites continued their unblemished ways recently, crushing San Francisco 10-0.

KEVIN BREAULT and Brad Cohen each bombed home three goals and Chris McCargo, Gordon Burkitt, Jeff Schmoke and Ricky Pitta each tallied one.

The Squirts ran their record to 9-0 with a 16-1 victory over SF. The Squirts have tallied 92 goals on the year and have given up just six.

Greg Powers led Squirt scorers with five and Pat Elias scored four. Dallas Denery hit three, Pat O'Connell two and Joey Driscall and Norm Rose one each.

The Pee Wees held their first place tie with Belmont with an 8-1 win over SF, pushing their season mark to 7-3. Stephen and Wayne Powers scored two goals each and Rich Smithson, Andy Stuart, Ryan Hopp and Glen Caurfield each got one.

THE EASTRIDGE Bantams pulled off an upset when they tied division leading SF 3-3. San Francisco had taken an unscathed 9-0-0 record into the game with Eastridge, 4-5-0 prior to gametime.

Steve McCargo, Wes Scholl and Steve Driscal each scored to gain the tie.

The Midgets lost in their battle with Belmont, Dick Stack and Bob Bergeron scoring the only Eastridge goals in the 6-2 setback.

Eastridge's Division II team, currently tied for first place, took Belmont 4-3. Ron Smithson scored three and Jerry Tomlinson one in the victory.

The Mites and Squirts both face byes this weekend while the Pee Wees and Bantams entertain Stockton Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and 8:45 p.m., respectively, and the Midgets visit Stockton at 12:15 p.m. earlier in the day. The next action for the Division II team is December 22 in Visalia.
